Bethel board will not join those opposed to Albany bingo hall

Nor take a position against natural gas pipeline through East Bethel

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has refused to formally oppose either a proposed high-stakes bingo hall in Albany Township or a pro-posed high-pressure natural gas pipeline through the town.

The selectmen have no direct authority over either of the proposals, both of which are currently being reviewed by other, state or federal, agencies.

But opponents of both the bingo hall and the pipeline turned out at Monday's selectmen's meeting to urge the board to lend them at least Opponents and supporters of a proposal by the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe to build a high-stakes bingo hall in Albany Township gathered at Sunday River's Summit Hotel.

The occasion was a long-awaited hearing by the Maine Land Use Regulation Commission, which has been asked by bingo hall developers to approve a rezoning of the 18-acre bingo hall site. Without a rezoning the plan cannot move ahead.

Wednesday's hearing began at 1 p.m. and was expected to run until late in the evening. A Thursday session is planned, if needed, to accommodate all those who wish to testify.

A LURC decision on the proposal is not expected until at least Octo-

HIGHWAY DEDICATED

The section of Route 26 between Locke Mills and Bethel villages was dedicated Saturday to the memory of Air Force Capt. Carl R. Churchill (above). The aviator, who was 25 years old, died on his first wedding anniversary, May 3, 1970, when the F-4 Phantom in which he was pilot systems operator was shot down by enemy fire over Laos. His body was never recovered. Saturday's dedication was a joint effort of the Locke Mills and Bethel American Legion posts. Peggy Churchill Brown, sister of Capt. Churchill, spoke at Saturday's ceremony and unveiled the sign commemorating her brother. Mrs. Brown is shown, right, with Jeri Brooks Greenwell, past eastern division national vice president and Brian Strickland, service officer for Post 81. ### Woodstock to address road name concerns

By ALISON ALOISIO

A special Town Meeting is scheduled for Sept. 23 in Woodstock to decide if Bird Hill Road should get a new name, and whether money should be spent to fix a Concord Pond Road culvert.

Bird Hill Road shares its namewith a nearby road in Greenwood -prompting concern that emergency personnel responding to calls could confuse the two.

The Greenwood version of the road, which begins at Route 26 by the Town Office, changes name at the Bethel town line to the McCrillis Brook Road. The McCrillis road then ends where formerly a farmer's road ran toward the Woodstock Bird Hill Road.

The plan for implementation of the state's E-911 system recommends against roads in an area having the same or similar names. It also discourages road names changing at town lines.

For that reason, Bethel 911 coordinator Norm Putnam and Woodstock selectmen agreed to ask residents of the two sections about a single name.

A survey was sent out. A majority of the Woodstock residents who responded opposed changing the Bird Hill name, selectmen said. A majority of Bethel residents on the McCrillis Brook Road favored that name. With more people living on the Bethel road, the overall majority

Fed fails to back these $20 bills

By ALISON ALOISIO

"How often do you hear someone say, 'I have a blank $20 bill?"

A Bethel resident (who asked her name not be used) thought she was the victim of a scam Sunday when a man approached her at the Key Bank ATM machine on Main

She met him leaving the machine as she was coming in to use it. "He held up five twenties, and said 'Have you ever seen anything like this?'" she said. "He turned one over, and it was blank."

She thought he was going to try to sell it to her as being valuable. "I don't want any part of this," she thought to herself.

They exchanged a few more words, then the man walked away. His parting comment was "I hope you don't get one."

Not a bad idea, considering it may be worth about $100, according to one currency expert. Robert Rioux of Universal Coin & Stamp Center in Portland said such mistakes happen "once in a while," and then slip through the Federal Reserve Bank's screening process.

John Dickson, Bethel Key Bank manager, said it's the first time in his seven years at the bank such a misprint has occurred. "It's rare for it to happen," he said.

The customers, he said, can turn the bills in for a correctly-printed bill, or they can keep them as a conversation piece.

Another resident who ended up with one of the one-siders said he would have taken his back to the bank, "but I was afraid they'd only

In 1783, the Barkers, Robbins, Browns and the Hamlins began to settle on the south and southwest part of town. Eli Longley was the first to settle in the flat area on the shores of the lake which is now called Keoka. To accommodate passing travelers, he opened a public house on the site of what is now the Lake House in 1797. Planning meetings about incorporating the town were hosted by Longley and meeting notices were posted there.

The petition for incorporation was signed in the parlor of the home which later became the Douglas Seminary. Waterford was officially recognized as a town on March 2, 1797.

HELP US, NEIGHBORS

To the Editor:

Recently a rezoning petition has been submitted to Land Use Regulatory Commission that would allow a high-stakes bingo casino to operate on the Old West Bethel Road in Albany Township, just south

The vast majority, if not all, of the year-round and seasonal residents of Albany Township strongly oppose this large-scale development in the area. The entrance is located on the access road for the Albany Mountain area of the White Mountain National Forest.

The total impact on the surrounding towns outside of LURC's jurisdiction remains speculative. There certainly may be some businesses that would benefit. On the other hand, there would be costs to the surrounding towns. For example, the highly intensified traffic congestion, not to mention the likelihood of stop lights in Fryeburg, Bethel and Al-

Consider, also, the oversized building that would seat up to 2,000 gamblers, all who would be expected to arrive and leave within a relatively short period of time on weekend mornings and evenings. At present the facility could operate up to 27 weekends a year. However, legislative approval would increase the number of weekends.

Consider the close proximity of the site to the Crooked River which is subject to flooding. There is a potential from pollution from the vast parking lots and proposed generators that could seriously affect the Sebago Lake Watershed's drinking supply while potentially eliminating the salmon and trout populations.

Albany residents are counting on their neighbors' support in opposing this project. In preserving Albany we will all preserve a way of life our children will live to enjoy.

A few years ago the BFD responded to a fire in Newry. When they got there the home was in flames and the owner, Farmer Lane, was lying on the floor of the home overcome by smoke and fumes. The fire was so fierce that the firemen could not get to him. Just as they were about to give up a three-legged pig comes running out of the barn, runs into the house ignoring the flames and smoke, grabs Farmer Lane by the scruff of the neck and drags him to safety.

The firemen cheered and thought this was the greatest thing ever. After the farmer had recovered, he told them how the pig had saved him before. It seemed that he was plowing in the back forty when the tractor he was in rolled over and he was pinned under it. His wife was gone for the week and nobody was expected. He was facing certain death. Just then this pig comes up, takes the situation in at a glance and digs out the farmer. The farmer had suffered a broken leg and the pig supported him all the way back to the farm and saved his life. "Yes sirreee, you don't find pigs like him very often."

"What happened to his leg?," a fireman finally asks.

we thought readers would enjoy it anyway.)

Farmer Lane looks at the fireman as if he was the greenest Flatlander he had ever seen and replies, "When you got a pig that good you certainly don't expect me to eat him all at once do you."

AWAP TEEN PROGRAM THANKS

To the Editor:

It is with much gratitude that the Abused Women's Advocacy Project thanks Mead Paper for their generous support of its teen program: Voices Changing Choices. Their recent donation of funds, raised in conjunction with Rusty Wallace, will allow the program, which promotes healthy relations, to purchase books, materials and videos for student use. Dozens of teens, trained as peer leaders, have participated in this program during the past four years. It is only with community support and involvement, such as shown by Mead Paper, that this vital youth program can survive.

We thank all at Mead Paper for their community support.

LET'S HAVE A HAPPY, SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL YEAR

To the Editor:

A new school year starts next week for SAD44 students. Many of us have spent time this summer in courses and reading, and we are now back in our classrooms preparing for the new school year. As bulletin boards go up and books come out of storage, we are planning ways to make this a productive year for each

We hope the parents and community members of the district will work with us by keeping in touch with the school, by talking often with all children about their school experiences, and by working with others in the community to provide more opportunities for all children both in and out of school.

Our children are the best resource for the future, and all of us wish the students of our district a happy, successful year.

AMC: CROWN VANTAGE HAS SHOWN LEADERSHIP

To the Editor:

The Appalachian Mountain Club would like to commend Crown Vantage for its recent adoption of policies governing the procurement of wood from outside suppliers. By its example, the company has shown leadership on this issue and made a clear statement that wood-using facilities are responsible for the quality of harvesting not only on their own lands but also on other lands from which they obtain wood.

The every-growing demand for wood fiber and the lack of significant controls on timber harvesting in New Hampshire have increased the incentive for those who would strip large areas of timber without concern for future forest growth, aesthetic quality, or wildlife habitat. New Hampshire has made great progress in developing voluntary guidelines for sustainable forestry and in educating landowners, loggers and foresters. However, no amount of education will influence those whose only concern is short-term profit. One approach to improving the practice of forestry in the state is for mills to choose not to purchase wood from those who would liquidate New Hampshire's woodlands. This will only work if the majority of mills in the region (including nearby states and Canada) adopt similar policies.

While it remains to be seen whether this type of approach can be effective in limiting the worst abuses taking place on New Hampshire's forest lands, we applaud Crown Vantage's leadership in promoting sustainable forestry in the state. We urge all wood-using facilities in the region to follow Crown Vantage's lead and adopt specific and stringent policies governing the harvesting of wood by outside suppliers.

There's a gambler born every minute

By MIKE BROWN

Eben Marsh, Maine's director of lottery operations, is jubilant. A survey conducted in June by a contract hired gun, Market Decisions, Inc., of South Portland, conveniently found that state-sanctioned gambling in Maine is not a rip-off.

Marsh says that "marketing research" was conducted to better understand the attitudes of the Maine people in regard to the lottery. Of course, there is a question whether the survey is a silk purse out of a pig's ear or the other way around.

Some 880 persons were called from mostly southern Maine via a list-assisted "random digit dial" (the same boiler-room tactic used by companies to interrupt and annoy home life) and 59 percent agreed to what turned out to be a 10-15 minute eater-upper of time.

Nowhere in the survey questions can be found one that asks the surveyee if he/she (adults only, please) knows that the odds of buying a winning Megabucks ticket is a zillion clams to one.

It was confusing to learn that about 75 percent thought the lottery was a "good idea" but 40 percent didn't know if it provided positive economic benefits to Maine or not. That's probably because 60 percent didn't know where in hell the revenue from the lottery went. Only 14 percent guessed right -the state's general fund where it could be appropriated to anything.

What the survey didn't include was that Maine's lottery represents about $41 bucks a year from every Maine citizen. Maine's per capita lottery income is the 17th highest in the nation.

But there is enough gambling goodies in the survey to keep the do-good bangers from the lottery doors. Only 15 percent of Maine folks have never lottery gambled, which means that Puritanism is dead in Maine.

Megabucks is the big draw promising Valhalla and the promised land for a hit, Maine folks by the thousands in wintertime shovel their driveways and skid down to the corner ma and pa store to gobble up Megabucks tickets. Hey! one hit and it's Florida here we come.

But Mainers love their scratchies, too. Instant cabin fever wipe-out for a buck or two.

length, libel, taste and readability.

The golden hook in the survey is that Mainers with household incomes between $25,000-$50,000 are more likely to be frequent players than those earning less than $25,000. Eben Marsh says, "This should scotch a long-standing perception that the Maine Lottery draws the lion's share of its players from low-income people."

Another view is that a sucker is born every minute, as millionaire P.T. Barnum observed 100 years before the Maine Lottery was born. And still another rather negative observation of Maine folks surfacing in the survey is that more people play for fun and the agony of defeat than the thrill of winning. That apparently means that Maine folks buying a Megabucks ticket with the odds a few million against them consider throwing money away as fun. But then again, the respondents thought it would be fun to be rich.

Feminists should note that more females throw their money away on the lottery than do males. And chauvinistic males will find out just who is throwing away their stolen pants-pocket money.

Apparently, Maine's Outdoor Heritage game is a dismal failure. Even Marsh says he wasn't surprised. The game has dedicated revenue to wildlife and conservation coffers but most players didn't know that calling it the loon, moose or eagle tickets. Maybe they thought they would win a loon, moose or eagle with no place to keep them.

The Outdoor ticket is a Sierra Club-type kissyface, feely-good-sport ticket being aced in favor of the Big Meg and scratchies where gamblers do understand what they will probably not be winning -cash, man, cash.

But the Maine Lottery is here to stay. Only 12 states have resisted the gambler's call so far. The national state lottery net income total in 1994 was almost $10 billion. That's one fat goose that lays a golden egg in the states' bureaucratic goosehouse every year.

Foxes take notice.

Tax rate drops in Andover

ANDOVER--The 1997 tax rate for Andover will be 14 mils -- down two from the previous rate of 16 mils. Selectmen set the rate at their regular meeting Tuesday. The decrease is largely accounted for by drops of approximately $40,000 each in the municipal and school appropriations.

The total to be raised from taxes is $562,030, while total appropriations are $738,027. The 14-mil rate provides for an overlay of $17,735.

Meisner still hospitalized

ANDOVER-Road commissioner Marshall Meisner will likely need two to three months of physical therapy before being able to function normally, selectman Dick Plantier said Tuesday. Meisner sustained pelvic and arm injuries last week when a town truck rolled onto him while he was working under it. Plantier said he spoke to a nurse at Central Maine Medical Center, where Meisner has been since the accident. Meisner might be released from the hospital sometime next week, Plantier said.

Colebrook man kills five

BETHEL--Maine state troopers stood by at the borders in Gilead and Upton Tuesday after a Colebrook, N.H. shooting spree that eventually resulted in the deaths of five people. Carl Drega, 67, killed two New Hampshire state troopers outside an IGA in Colebrook. He then stole a police cruiser and drove to a building housing the offices of a part-time judge and the Colebrook weekly newspaper. There, Drega shot and killed the judge, Vickie Bunnell, and the paper's editor, Dennis Joos. Five other people were wounded before Drega was shot to death by police in Vermont. The New Hampshire troopers killed were Leslie Lord, 45, and Scott Phillips, 32. Maine police were concerned for a time that Drega might try to cross into the state from New Hampshire. One person (identity not available at press time) who was wounded later died.

Hangars approved for Col. Dyke

Region 9 budget is cut

RUMFORD--Voters in Region 9 last week cut $42,000 from the proposed $942,880 School of Applied Technology budget. They also cut the Adult Learning Center budget by 20 percent, to $200,497. The budgets were previously approved by voters from SAD43, 44 and other member towns at a July 30 meeting, but a procedural error in the signing of the meeting warrant required that it be held again. The budget had also been passed by popular vote in a spring referendum in member towns, but was defeated by weighted vote of the region's directors. Board members were required to vote according to their town's overall results.

AMC, timber companies cooperate

WELD--The Appalachian Mountain Club and two of Maine's largest timber corporations have teamed up in an innovative effort to maintain popular hiking trails on the timber companies' land for public use and enjoyment. In a partnership with the Mead Corporation and Hancock Timber Resources Group, the Appalachian Mountain Club's professional trail crew is working this summer in the Tumbledown Mountain region. The crew is digging water bars to improve drainage, setting rocks in the trails to control erosion, and better defining the edges of the trails to reduce impact on the forest floor by helping to keep hikers on the trails. The trails, some of which are side trails to the Appalachian Trail, are very popular among hikers, but steepness and high altitude render some unsuitable for logging.

Police seek shotgun incident suspect

COLUMBIA, N.H.--An occupant of a van from North Carolina allegedly fired five shots from a 12-gauge shotgun at a residence here Aug. 8, according to the Coos County Democrat. The chocolate and yellow vehicle reportedly had a "Tennessee Freedom Fighters" sticker on the rear bumper. The incident occurred after the owner of the residence, who was driving on Route 26, came upon the van parked in the road. He yelled at the van's driver to move it out of the road.

Prison proposed for Berlin

BERLIN, N.H.--Berlin officials have asked the state to locate a state prison in the city, according to a report in the Maine Sunday Telegram. With a dwindling population and work force, Berlin is proposing the prison as a means to create jobs in the area. The facility would be a 500-bed medium security prison, with no halfway houses or work release of inmates into the community. The offer made it through the state Senate and into the House of Representatives last session, before resistance from Gov. Jeanne Shaheen and House Speaker Donna Sytek put the issue off until January. until January.

Outdoors-woman workshop offered

AUGUSTA--The third annual Becoming an Outdoors-Woman workshop will take place Sept. 5-7 at Greenland Point in Princeton. The workshop is geared for women who want to learn outdoor skills in a relaxed atmosphere. The workshop, sponsored by the Maine Warden Association and the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, will offer 24 courses. Choices include fly fishing, fly tying, shotgun and rifle skills, sailing and canoeing. The fee for the three-day workshop is $150. For more information call (207) 287-8000.

Jazz and Blues festival Aug. 30

Bartlett, N.H.--The White Mountain Jazz & Blues Festival, featuring the Jazz Crusaders and Corey Stevens, is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 30 at the Fields of Attitash in Bartlett. Vendors will also offer clothing, jewelry, wooden crafts, music, educational products and food. Tickets can be purchased by calling (603) 374-2368.

Town clerk scandals increase

NORTHPORT--A series of scandals involving local tax collectors, town clerks and office managers accused or suspected of stealing funds have put the spotlight on a public office where integrity used to be taken for granted. "A lot of trust is put in these people that they're going to be honest and thinking about the community and doing what's best," Mike Starn of the Maine Municipal Association said. "Sometimes, the temptation gets too great." Examples: Former Northport town clerk and tax collector Norma Sheldon was indicted last week for the theft of more than $10,000 in 1995 excise taxes. Fort Kent Office Manager Marilyn Deschaine drowned in the Fish River in May during a probe of $500,000 in missing town hall funds. Suicide is suspected. Former Madison Town Clerk Lisa Paine admitted in May to stealing $255,000 over a six-year period. Thomaston town bookkeeper Francis Hernandez was convicted in May 1996 of stealing $32,000 and sentenced to four years in jail, with all but 15 days suspended. Starn said he believes such crimes are restricted to just a small number of workers in a small number of towns. Heather Hunter, Lewiston's deputy city auditor and a lecturer on the subject, said inadequate staffing at some small towns is part of the problem. "They don't have the proper segregation of duties, like the checks and balances aren't necessarily in place," Hunter said. "And it all depends on how thorough a year-end audit they have." Perhaps due to the recent spate of criminal cases, many small towns have started to switch outside auditors, hoping a new set of eyes and a more in-depth audit will catch problems NORTHPORT--A series of scandals involving local tax collectors, town hoping a new set of eyes and a more in-depth audit will catch problems overlooked before, Hunter said.

At 9:55 p.m. a West Bethel resident reported that her daughter had observed an adult male attempting to pick the lock to their front door. He fled when he heard someone inside. The complainant and a neighbor then checked the residence and found all in order.

Sunday, Aug. 17

At 2:15 a.m. police received a report of three subjects on the Bethel Common who appeared to be intoxicated. While the officer was on the way to the scene, he was advised they departed in a vehicle. A check of the area was negative.

At 1:54 p.m. the Oxford County Sheriff's Department requested police be on the lookout for a vehicle that was headed north on Route 26. The operator was allegedly involved in an altercation with another subject in Bryant Pond, causing damage to their vehicle and assaulting them. A: search of the area brought negative results.

Culvert dangerous?

Concord Pond resident Roland Pelletier said he has been worried about the condition of a culvert on the road for three years.

The culvert, made up of three side-by-side pipes, carries the outlet from Concord Pond. Fill around the pipes has given way near the sides of the road, which is described as narrow by Town Manager Vern Maxfield. The road also turns a corner at that location.

"It's a very dangerous thing, and it's an environmental thing," Pelletier told selectmen Tuesday. "There's dirt going into the brook."

Gordon Brown has also offered gravel as fill for the Lakeside Cemetery. If selectmen determine the fill is suitable, a vote is required regarding whether to take money from the cemetery interest account to pay for trucking it in.

answer. If a letter doesn't fit one of those categories, it goes to a White House staff member to answer individually.

Writers who disagree with the Clintons on an issue often write very reasonable letters, Coan said. "If a letter is well-written, it may be marked for the particular attention of a staff person, or Mrs. Clinton," Coan said.

The letter writers are as varied as the topics. Letters from individuals abroad sometimes ask for money for medical operations. "Some are very sad," Coan said.

Unfortunately, unless the correspondence is from an American or a country where English is the official language, it generally can't be answered.

The e-mail generation

The youngest Americans also send mail to the Clintons. "Heaps of children write," said Coan. "A lot of them send e-mail. It often comes in over the weekend. A lot of them write, 'Hi, I just wanted to say hello.' That's the whole message." The White House does not e-mail back, but if the kids include their regular mailing address, they generally get a card, Coan said.

Then there's Christmas time. "Some people write just to ask to receive a Christmas card," Coan said. The White House tries to comply, "but some cards still come back (as not deliverable). Americans are a very mobile crowd," she said.

The costs associated with sending out the Christmas cards are paid by the Democratic National Com-

In return for her time -- which generally amounts to a day a week -- Coan has the privilege of attending many state functions. They include receptions and ceremonies on the White House lawn for kings and other dignitaries.

From time to time the volunteers also have group and individual photos taken with Mrs. Clinton. Coan has two individual shots of herself with the first lady.

Then there's a less formal one of Coan and Socks, taken by another volunteer.

(Socks) is brought over to the mail office every so often, led on a leash. After the door is closed, he's let loose," said Coan. The cat has been known to make himself comfortable in the baskets of mail in the office, she said. But even there, he apparently can't es-moral support, by going on record against the projects.

The board members, however, declined to do so as a body.

At the opening of Monday's sessons, chairman Dutch Dresser said he believed it would not be appropriate for the board to take a formal position unless all five members were unanimous in opposing a given project.

If there was less than unanimity, he said, then it would be more appropriate for board members to speak out as individuals.

As it turned out there was agreement on the pipeline project, but not the sort the project opponents hoped for -- despite impassioned arguments about the danger of such pipelines and the negative aesthetic impact it would have on the East Bethel Road, not a single board member indicated a willingness to take a formal position against it.

The bingo hall opponents had better luck, with the board agreeing to send Town Manager Phil Tarr to Wednesday's LURC meeting (see box) to testify formally that the town "did not currently have the capacity" to provide emergency services to the proposed bingo site.

Three board members -- a majority -- even agreed to go on record against the project, but two, Bob Chadbourne and Reggie Brown.

"I don't support the plan, but I won't be beating the drum against it," said Chadbourne.

Brown said he did not feel he' could vote on the proposal without more input from merchants and shopkeepers who might support it. The three remaining selectmen --Dresser, Ruth Grover and John Thurston -- indicated they were willing to go on record against the bingo hall.

Karen Jordan Tuesday afternoon, many old friends and neighbors gathered at the

West Bethel Union Church to attend the services for Arthur Head. The church has been a special -meeting place for myself and others Throughout the years. A funeral can be such a sobering experience for 'people, and so it was for us as we watched and listened to the Norman Rust leading the service.

numerous ones who knew Arthur so well. Familiar faces appeared in the crowd and rose to speak about their that we ran out of food. fond remembrances of this kind and gentle man. None of us can know it's always wonderful hearing the had close relationships. It makes one spend with others.

Richard Grover told stories of the suppers. dance hall days when the Top Hat and Abner's were still operating and birthday on Aug. 26. Arthur, being the oldest in that led the others on many happy ad-times hunting and fishing with Aug. 13.

Arthur and the tales they would tell about the ones that got away.

I learned that Arthur and Gilbert Haines played harmonica and accompanied the rest of the "camp" gang as they sang old-time tunes around the camp stove. Gilbert Haines told about riding home from Boy Scouts in the back of Arthur's pickup truck and how annoyed Arthur got when Gilbert started pounding on the top of the cab after Arthur forgot his stop.

Jeff Parsons related finding Arthur and Sheila asleep in his living room. They had taken their supper up the Flat Road and stayed with the Parsons' children the night of Pattie's accident.

Each memory was shared with love and helped to knit the entire congregation into one unit. Arthur would have enjoyed hearing the whole church alive with laughter as close friends stepped forward to reminisce about the funny side of the man. All would agree that compassion and tranquility best describe Arthur's character.

in celebrating Arthur's life. John spent six years in the little Victorian Heads, Gilberts, Stowells, Grovers, and many others who worship there. John described Arthur as a gentle giant of a man and the best father, husband and friend you could find. He also told the folks gathered there PNGTS does not have permits yet that he had never found a better group of people who were willing to pull together in times of need than he had found here in West Bethel.

gray pall on the timbered slope. By no means has it been that way during the week. One morning I was out at early morn. A faint wind touched my face, more like soft cotton than a stream of air, as it passed down the glade from time to time. Toward the east I saw a haze of light upon the horizon.

There was a dawn chorus, which made it worthwhile to be out eafly. There are many notes, teasing belllike, sawing and gentle. From a distance came the floating song of the blackbird. Then I heard the purple finch in remote beauty, warm and light. He sat near the garage and sang most exquisitely. His song rises to an ecstasy as he runs through it sweet and pleasing. As I decided to go in for breakfast, a blue heron appeared. He looked gigantic as he banked and came to the pond's edge seeking his breakfast, too. At times he stood like a shabby, furled umbrella, dark, gaunt, and motion-

The sky and pond were like oppomirrors, reflecting mountains and trees, a morning picture to remember, and I will.

I went inside to have some toast and coffee, wondering if Mr. Heron, as he flew away, would have his,

Bryant Pond

Alice Hoyt Many persons tell Evelyn Bean she is never home -- as the garage doors are not opened. But recently they were away for a few days and some bold person ventured in and helped themselves to two boxes of articles she had picked up for a "sale." As the items were new, Mrs. Bean would appreciate their return -- no questions asked.

Judith Grover Tent 17, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, met Monday, Aug. 11, for a regular meeting. Twelve members were present. A thank you was received from Melanie Ellsworth, also an invitation to East Stoneham for a joint inspection with them and Norway Tent on Wednesday, Sept. 24. A letter was received from Michelle Cary about her department project for next year. Thirty-seven calls were reported. Kathleen McAllister filled in as junior vice president and Bessie House as guard. The mystery package went to Elena Noyes. The next meeting will be a picnic at 5:30 p.m., place to be announced. The Tent will put on the Senior Citizens dinner on Sept. 4. Plans for that were made. Tom Watt books were passed out in order to get orders. The money will go to the department. Refreshments were served by Elsie Bonney and Helvi Cary.

At the August meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society, Baron Lake Christopher. Plans for History Day were discussed and a Nominating Committee was chosen, Donations to the society came from Sirl LaReway and Olive Risko. The afternoon guides for the museum were Annella Burnham and Evelyn Bean, President Helvi Cary retyped who has paid, so join soon. Curator Larry Billings often sends thank-you notes for donations of exhibits to the museum, and he sometimes gives society members little gifts for things they do.

The Bryant Pond hour on Channel IV T.V. is 3:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and 7 p.m. on Thursdays. Beatrice Farnum and Alice Hoyt called on Alice and Arthur

Wardwell on Wednesday. Ken and Alice Hoyt, Beatrice Farnum, Marybeth Hoover, Leatrice and John Chase were guests of David, JoAnn, Ray and Shaun Crockett for a cookout Thursday

The Historical Society suggests you visit area antique shops to find interesting old things to collect, and patronizing area shops in general is a good idea as it helps the local economy. It is nice to live in a mobile society, but don't neglect things close to home.

North Newry

Call to Worship was held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning, with Pastor

Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was "God's Sympathy is extended to the fam- Chosen" from Matthew 5:12: "Rejoice and be glad; for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." Responsive readbara Hathaway, vice president, chaired the meeting. It was the annual picnic, held at Barbara's camp too young for God to see, He knows my name and nature too, etc." Another special was done by Gil Seeley, "I'm not too old," from Psalm 92:14.

Ras Bachelder's 97-year-old father, Aaron, was rushed to the hospital a while back and spent a couple. of days under observation and had the society's membership list. Secre-several blood transfusions. He is

We had a nice visit with Dr. Stephen Chase this week. He stopped by after he had been at his woodlot in Woodstock. We were surprised to see him, as it had been quite a while since he had been here. Kellie and Brad Record and Jessie Hart came up for a visit Tuesday evening. We had a nice time. They're all real busy, so they don't get up very often. Rick and Sally Wing, Wes Smith and a friend came for dinner Sunday. It was to celebrate Sally's Rick helped his father, Richard, find ent. an unused drilled well that had been covered up, and we couldn't seem to locate it before.

Upton

By Margaret Mitchell

The Upton Ladies Aide meeting was held Tuesday, Aug. 12, with eight members present. The report on the supper held Saturday, Aug. 9 ("Taste of Maine"), was very satisfactory and was enjoyed by all.

The menu for the next supper, Saturday, Aug. 30, is chicken, ham and corned beef and cabbage. Hostesses are Simonne Lavallee and Tammy Grondin. Following the supper, which will be served at 5 p.m., there will be a raffle and auction.

On Aug. 10, in the morning, Back Street was busier than usual with cars, as people arrived for the 13th Annual Homecoming held at Margaret Mitchell's camp.

Tex Fogwill, who had arrived a few days earlier, helped Margaret prepare for the homecoming, and everything was ready for a good time. There was B-B-Q, salads and birthday, which was last Friday. desserts galore. There were 34 pres-

Traish, Nowal and I went to South Paris and got some blueberries for our freezer and for future pies and muffins and to put on cereal. Carole Nelson brought home a load of broccoli for the freezer. It sure was fresh and good. Some of it didn't make the freezer.

Monday, Frances Grant showed us her salt and peppers' collection, which was interesting. She has collected these over many years and each one has a story.

Martha Littlefield is here from Virginia for three weeks' vacation. The Stoneham Church Thrift and Bake sales did very well again this past Saturday. Thanks to all who help on this fundraiser.

Nowal and I attended the Open House program at North Lovell for. the Lewis Dana Hill Memorial Library on Wednesday night. Donations are being accepted to help re-store the flooring there that has caved in on one end of the room. New sills will have to be put in place in the very near future to make it safe. The program consisted of a play, "Eclipse," with Gregg Snyder as Earth, Jason Chroba as Sky, Steven Mead as Sun, Kerri Reynolds as Moon, Jack Dunham as Eclipse, Karly Camper as Lengthening Shadows, Megan Dunham as Minutes of Totality, David Mead as Great Fear, Laura Barnhart as Venus, Sarah Hannes as Gust of Wind, Amy Ackerly as Stars, Sienna Grover as Mercury, Jessica Reynolds as Jupiter, Susan Hannes as Altar, and Yazi Azel as Vega.

This program was put together and narrated by Ruth Mitchell and introduced by Sue Campos. Following this little play, the County Chords Barbershop Quartet came on stage and entertained us with great singing. Ted Tracy, Bob Gunn, Dave Tilley and Ken Goddard were in this group. Guys, I liked your ties. It was all very enjoyable, and after the program there were refreshments served by the library group.

As I am a day late in getting news out, I can comment on the church's Turkey Supper. Again, it was successful and there was a good crowd of people and a good supper as usual. The outside sales table also did well and thanks to all who helped. One item we are looking for is a double boiler. Do you have one

Don't forget, the book sale is still on and $1-a-bag sale is on Saturdays here at our church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., along with the Bake Sale.

I understand that Bonnie Fox is taking a leave of absence from her duties as postmistress and Sharon Long of Oxford is taking her place.

END OF THE RAINBOW 4-H

The End of the Rainbow 4-H Club met at leader Kate Slattery's house last Thursday. In attendance were Carey, Evan and Trina Boelsma; Mary, Siobhan and Thomas Henley; Mia Stucchi; Colleen and Becky Slattery, Also helping were moms Jeanne Boelsma and Kathi Hawthorne.

An afternoon of activities was held for the upcoming Oxford and Fryeburg fairs.

The scouts learned how to can yellow beans and applesauce using USDA-approved methods. It was a lot of work preparing the produce, but everyone had fun and agreed it would taste good this winter.

The scouts also worked on a Christmas pie plate craft for a club exhibit, which will be on display in the 4-H Exhibit Hall at the fairs.

The club would like to congratulate its horse 4-H crossover members, the Slatterys. They have worked hard to improve their horsemanship skills, and the ribbons from the Ellis River Riders shows reflect this. The sheep 4-H crossover members, the Slatterys and Trina, have been raising market lambs. The lambs need a lot of care and walking. They will be shown and auctioned at the fairs.

HIKE/BIKE/RUN T-SHIRT

The Mahoosuc Arts Council is looking for a new design to be used for the 10th Annual Hike/Bike/Run T-shirt. The council would like to invite interested artists to collaborate with the council by submitting designs to the Mahoosuc Arts office by Sept. 1.

This event is an annual fundraiser event for Mahoosuc Arts and will take place on Saturday, Oct. 11, at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The council is interested in a design that could incorporate the many aspects of the arts, as well as the Hike/Bike/Run component. The creator of the design chosen will receive two complimentary shirts and her/his signature will be printed on the shirts. The design does not have to be camera ready and can be screen printed with a four-color

SAD44 Adult Ed

The SAD44 Community Learning Center at the Ethel Bisbee School in Bethel will open for the 1997-98 school year on Tuesday, Aug. 26, featuring an exciting array of options for adult learners seeking to improve their skills leading to higher education or employability. The Learning Center is open on Mondays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to noon and from 5 to 7 p.m., and on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Academic instructors are Lee Dolleman and Jeanette Baldridge, and the guidance and career counselor is Merrill Bittner, Frank Gibson Jr. is the Learning Center

In addition to traditional adult education academic opportunities, such as GED preparation and testing, literacy tutoring and high school diploma completion, the Community Learning Center offers academic preparation for college and tutorial support for those in a college program. The stateof-the-art computer lab provides adult learners with opportunity to take classes in computer usage and to work on an individual basis using tutorial

Job skills training and resume and cover letter preparation are offered in conjunction with the Career Guidance services which include use of a resource library, CHOICES, a computerized career guidance program, and Childcare is offered during the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday morning hours at the center, and assistance with transportation is also available, A new feature at the center this fall is the monthly lunch meeting of the "learning community." Participants will be encouraged to take an active possession of any lands lying within part in planning this event. The center is a place were individuals seeking a district organized under this chapto fulfill their educational goals can work together and receive encouragement and support in meeting their goals.

New students are asked to contact the Adult Education office at Telstar, 824-2780, to enroll. Previously-enrolled students may sign up at the Learn- obtained by contacting the District ing Center. There is no charge for Community Learning Center programs.

OCS&WCD nominations

Persons desiring to run for the office of district supervisor for the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District should contact the District office at 1 Main Street, South Paris, ME 04281, or telephone 743-7019 to obtain nomination papers.

Notice of Availability - Scoping Letter

The White Mountain National Forest is currently analyzing a reorganiztion strategy that involves potential facilities relocation and/or merging of the Supervisor's Office, the Ammonoosuc Ranger Station, and the Pemigewasset Ranger Station, along with a reduction in its permanent workforce. United States Department of Agriculture regulations require that a Givil Rights Impact Analysis (CRIA) be conducted prior to any major Agency action being implemented. The proposed reorganization and facilities relocation may have some form of social, economic and/or civil rights impact, both positive and negative in the Forest Service's delivery of goods and services to the public. Givil rights impacts are impacts of a specific course of action that disproportionately affect a person or group more than another. The tenbases for determining civil rights impacts are race, color, national origin, gender, religion, ade, disability, political beliefs, sexual orientation, and marital or family status. The purpose rof the CRIA is to determine the scope, intensity, and direction of the impacts to both the public and agency employees that may result from the two propsed actions. If you wish to receive additional information on these proposals in order to determine if your rights could be impacted, please contact one of the offices listed below either by letter or phone. The deadline to receiving comments is

In Memory of

Gilbert Osman Bailey

June 11, 1945 - August 18, 1996

The phone no longer rings late at night for us to hear you say "I know I got you out of bed this time". We no longer hear tales of how many pulls it took for that "win" in Reno. The fish are getting bigger because you're not here to catch them, or to tell us the hundred ways of cooking your beloved "catfish".

The road you travelled had a lot of bumps and curves along the way. You always managed to come out with a smile, because you stopped to help others along the way. We weren't with you when that final bend in the road came for you, but we take great comfort in knowing you now dwell in God's Golden Kingdom, where his love surrounds you.

CALVARY CHURCH CONCERT

Diane Muise of Auburn will present a concert of Gospel music on Saturday evening, Aug. 30, at the Calvary Congregational Church in Andover.

A professional singer for many years, Muise has toured extensively across the United States and Canada. An award-winning singer and songwriter, Muise has recorded seven albums in Nashville. Most recently she recorded her eighth album, "Live," in concert in Auburn. Ten of her songs have been published in her new song book, "The Songs of Diane Muise." She is a member of ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers), Gospel Music Association and the Southern Gospel Music Association.

Many of her concerts feature her children as well: 17-year-old Linda and seven-year-old Michael. Husband Leo acts as booking agent, business manager and sound technician. As a family they travel approximately 50,000 miles per year. The Muises present a varied program of different types of Gospel music interspersed with humor, caring and sharing of real-life experiences.

The public is cordially invited to attend the 7 p.m. concert. There is no admission charge; however, a freewill offering will be received for the Muise Music Ministry.
